Croatian Quality and Croatian Creation

Be CROative

Identifying top quality Croatian products will help us clearly recognise the best features we have today, so we can offer them to the world of tomorrow in full confidence and safety.

The quote from the Letter of Intent of the project for visual marking of Croatian products describes in the best way the wish and goal of the project the Croatian Chamber of Economy started in 1997. Fully aware that the global market recognises quality as one of the basic factors of competition, we set up a mechanism which helps the profession through independent, multidisciplinary and technical commissions; evaluate companies and their products, as well as decide on the allocation of rights to use one of the two labels. With products carrying the Croatian Quality label, we guarantee quality on the level of top global achievements. You will find added value in products carrying the label Croatian Creation, since they are the result of innovative and inventive work of Croatian producers and our tradition and thereby unique in the world and originally Croatian.

The exhibition Be CROative is used to promote quality Croatian products (owners of the labels Croatian Quality and Croatian Creation), artists, scientists, innovators and inventions of Croatian nationals known worldwide, as well to promote Croatia as a country of innovative and creative people. The Croatian Chamber of Economy uses this exhibition to proudly present Croatian champions, artists, scientists and innovators, and to show that Croatia also creates products with intelligence and resourcefulness in addition to having top athletes and beautiful nature.

In the long-term, we expect to position Croatian products on foreign markets, which are recognisable for their authenticity and top quality. Our wish is that Croatia is recognised in the world as a country of quality.

Since 2012, the project "BE CROative" has component "Invest in Croatia", which has as its aim to present Croatia as an attractive investment destination, with the value and quality investment potential.

We hope the exhibition Be CROative and quality labels Croatian Quality and Croatian Creation will help you choose Croatian products and decide on business co-operation with Croatian companies. ■

Nadan Vidošević, President of CCE

Croatian Quality

To date, the Croatian Quality label has been awarded to 225 products and 2 services.

Above average quality products produced in the Republic of Croatia carry the mark Croatian Quality. This mark is recognition of both product and manufacturer, as well as a guarantee to the manufacturer that this is a product which satisfies highest quality demands and represents world quality.

Croatian brands on the global scene

The goal of the Be CROative project is to represent Croatia and bring it closer to people and consumers worldwide as well as introduce them to features that will always help them recognise quality products.

The Be CROative project is a project of the Croatian Chamber of Economy which promotes Croatia as a country of innovative and creative people, quality Croatian products, artists, scientists, innovators and inventions originating from Croatia and known in the entire world.

Products that carry the labels Croatian Creation and Croatian Quality have been presented in a series of exhibitions to consumers and business partners worldwide since 2007. The CCE uses this project to present Croatia as a modern country of the 21st century with top quality products, able to compete on the global market; a country proud of its world-renowned artists, scientists, innovators and inventions that contributed to global development.

The showroom of the project BeCROative is in a shape of two cubes, which symbolise Croatia. The products are exhibited in state-of-the-art glass showcases, and the presentation is completed

Starting points of the Be CROative project:

Croatia is a country of know-how and creative people - represent world-renowned scientists, artists, innovators and inventions that contributed to global development

Croatian products are high-quality products - products carrying the labels Croatian Creation and Croatian Quality meet the world's highest quality standards

Croatia is a modern country of the 21st century - the concept of the showroom is designed according to top technological and design criteria with a multi-media exhibition based on the principle look, listen, feel. Visitors can watch short films on the beauties of Croatian nature and listen to typical sounds, such as the sea, seagulls and crickets. They can also get to know numerous inventions originating from Croatia: Penkala's first mechanical pen, dactiloscope for finger prints by Vučetić, parachute by Vrančić, Lupis' torpedo, Tesla's alternating current and many other inventions.

The goal of the Be CROative project is to represent Croatia and bring it closer to people and consumers worldwide as well as introduce them to features that will always help them recognise its quality products. ■

Slavoljub Penkala

Born on April 20, 1871 in Slovakia, one of the most significant inventors from the beginning of the 20th century. His work encompasses between 70 and 80 inventions in the fields of mechanics, chemistry, physics, aeronautics and many others.

In 1906 he patented the first mechanical pencil. In 1907, he patented the first solid-ink fountain pen and in 1910 he constructed and patented an aeroplane which the first Croatian pilot Dragutin Novak used for his first flight.

Ivan Vučetić

Ivan Vučetić was born in Hvar, where he lived and worked until 1884, when at the age of 26, he emigrated to Argentina. Four years later, he started working at the Central Police Office in La Plata, dedicating himself to the research and study of papillary lines. After having studied a number of existing fingerprints classification methods, he identified their flaws and set up his own fingerprint classification system, which he named "iknofalangometrija". Ivan Vučetić published numerous works on dactyloscopy, and his fingerprint classification system was adopted in Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, and later throughout South America.

Marin Getaldić

Marin Getaldić-Ghetaldus, an extraordinary scientist of his age, was born in Dubrovnik. He achieved his most significant results in physics, especially in optics and mathematics. Among his numerous books, Promotus Archimedes (Rome, 1603) and De resolutione et compositione mathematica (Rome, 1630) are considered as being important, as Getaldić appears as a pioneer of geometric algebraisation. Getaldić was the constructor of parabolic mirror (66 cm in diameter), today kept in the National Maritime Museum in London.

Juraj Julije Klović

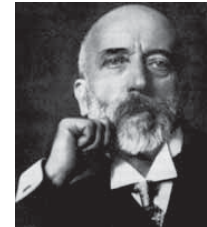

Born in 1498, this artist was the first among both Croatian and European visual arts pioneers to have added the name "Croata" to his Latin name of Georgius Julius.

In Croatia, better known by his original name of Juraj Julije Klović, this artist was one of the most prominent European miniaturists of the 16th century and the mannerism period. "Oficium Virginis" is considered to be his masterpiece - a collection of 28 miniatures with scenes from both Old and New Testaments, characterised by figures of elongated proportions, mysterious landscapes, pale greenish, bluish and purple tones, as well as decorative splendour.

Ivan Meštrović

One of the most significant sculptors of the 20th century. He graduated at the Art Academy in Vienna. According to Meštrović, the mystery of love untangles the mystery of death and is a precondition for believing in eternity. Therefore, in his opinion, a man's deeds made on Earth, including art, are "prints of an immortal being". The most important in his opus is the religious cycle (sacral objects, sculptures in marble, bronze and wood), a combination of archaic, "gothicised", secessionist and expressionist styles.

Andrija Mohorovičić

Born on January 23, 1857 in Volosko, near Opatija, Andrija Mohorovičić was a notable Croatian meteorologist and seismologist. His work in the field of seismology became known globally. He is regarded as one of the founders of modern seismology. Mohorovičić founded the Meteorological Observatory in Zagreb, which developed into a modern institute and became known world-wide for its seismological measurements. He also established a meteorological service covering all Croatia, and is best known for his works in the field of seismology, as well as the globally recognised Seismology School in Zagreb.

Ruđer Bošković

Ruđer Bošković was born on May 18, 1711. He started writing treatises on mathematics, physics and astronomy by the age of 15, thus gaining recognition as a talented scientist when he was very young. At age 25, he published his first notable treatise "Sunspots", in which he introduced two of his own new methods to determine the elements of the Sun's rotation. This work was followed by numerous other valuable and appreciated scientific works, and the peak of the cycle was his "Theory of Natural Philosophy". At the international symposium in Dubrovnik, on the occasion of the 200th anniversary of the "Theory of Natural Philosophy", famous physicist Nils Bohr pointed out that Bošković theories again attract increasing attention from modern scientists.

Nikola Tesla

Undoubtedly one of the most significant researchers and inventors, Nikola Tesla was born on July 10, 1856. In spring 1884, at the age of 28, he moved to New York. Tesla is best known for his many revolutionary developments in the field of alternating current electric power systems and electrical energy transfer; he realised the principle of the rotating magnetic field and was among the first to have experimented with electromagnetic waves. Tesla patented more than 700 inventions, of which around ten were widely applied in practice.

Ivan Lupis Vukić

Born in the village of Nakovane, on the Pelješac Peninsula, Ivan Lupis Vukić served in the Austrian navy, where he obtained the rank of frigate captain. Ivan Lupis Vukić invented the first torpedo. With the assistance of British engineer Robert Whitehead, he managed to realise his ideas, and in 1886, the first self-propelled torpedo was officially demonstrated before the Austro-Hungarian state commission for evaluation. That same year, Robert Whitehead's factory in Rijeka started producing torpedoes.

Marin s Raba

St. Marin founded the first European republic. It is believed that he was a stonemason or a smith from Lopar on the Island of Rab. During the reign of the Roman emperor Diocletian, Christians were persecuted which forced him and his friend to flee to Rimini, Italy. The Bishop of Rimini came into contact with the two men and baptised them. Later they were ordained deacons and given the names Marino and Leo after two martyrs. St. Marin converted many people to Christianity, and became the patron saint of the San Marino Republic, stonemasons, deacons and falsely accused people.

Marco Polo

Messer Marco Millione or translated: Marco who spends lavishly - this was how Italians used to call one of the most famous world travellers - Marco Polo. Traditions hold that Marco Polo was born on the Island Korčula in 1254. His father and uncle were Venetian traders, who accidentally travelled to the court of the Mongol Emperor Kublai Khan. Marco Polo lived at the Mongol Court for 17 years and, during that period, travelled throughout Asia. Marco wrote of his extensive travels throughout Asia in his itinerary.

Lavoslav Ružička

Ružička was born in Vukovar. He was the winner of the Nobel Prize in Chemistry, and the first Croatian Nobel Prize winner. Ružička's first works originated during that very period in the field of chemistry of natural compounds. He remained in this field of research all his life. In Zurich, he started the most brilliant period of his professional career. After the successful synthesis of sex hormones (androsterone and testosterone), his laboratory became the world centre of organic chemistry. In 1939, he won the Nobel Prize for chemistry jointly with Adolf Butenandt.

Vladimir Prelog

Vladimir Prelog was born on July 23, 1906. His fields of research were predominantly heterocyclic compounds, alkaloids and antibiotics. His research has contributed to the explanation of the structure of steroids, quinine, strychnine, and other alkaloids and he synthesised many organic compounds. His works have contributed to understanding the nature of enzyme reactions. In 1975 he won the Nobel Prize in Chemistry.

Dušan Vukotić

Director, scriptwriter, animator and cartoonist Dušan Vukotić was born on February 7, 1927. He studied architecture in Zagreb.

His first contact with animated films was in the "Duga film" (Rainbow film) project. His debut cartoon was "Kako se rodio Kićo" (How Kićo was born), in 1951. In 1956 he realised his first project "Nestašni robot" (A Playful Robot). His most famous works are "Cowboy Jimmy" (1957), "Veliki strah" (The Great Fear) (1958), "Koncert za mašinsku pušku" (Machine Gun Concert) (1958), "Krava na mjesecu" (Cow on the Moon) (1959) and many others. In 1961 he won an Oscar for best short animated film "Surogat" (Surrogate), thus being the first non-American winner of this prize.

David Schwartz

David Schwartz was a Croatian aviator. He invented and constructed the first dirigible balloon with propellers. His invention was tested before the German army commission who decided to implement it. Soon after, David Schwartz died of a heart attack, and count Ferdinand von Zeppelin bought his designs from his widow and constructed a balloon which today carries his name - Zeppelin.

Faust Vrančić

Faust Vrančić was the most important constructor and technical writer in the 16th and 17th centuries. He was born in 1551 in Šibenik. He researched machine construction/design and architectural problem cases. Together with Giovanni Ambrogio Mazenta, he examined Leonardo da Vinci's technical sketches, which resulted in the most significant Vrančić's work "Machinae novae".

In this work, the projects are described only on a phenomenological level, lacking the physical and technical knowledge necessary for actual construction, which were realised later, in the 18th century. Among the significant descriptions in this book are also cable bridge and Homo volans (Latin for the flying man), sketches of a parachute.
